

Magic shields, magic rituals, magic aides

– Luisa Francia tells stories that show how people from different cultures protect themselves with magic defenses of threats and dangers. It would really be quite simple to protect oneself: keeping one's eyes open, opening all of one's senses, noticing everything that is going on around oneself, reflecting and acting. It is our own negative line of thinking that endangers us. Luisa Francia describes how a more sensitized perception of ourselves can also change the world around us: She provides hints and guidance how magic charms really work.

→ The secrets of shaman and magic charm rituals – the latest book by the experienced magician

Luisa Francia is an author, an artist, an expert of sorcery, a traveler; she has an adult daughter, speaks five languages and has published more than 30 books, some of which became bestsellers. She keeps a web-log www.salamandra.de. Her favorite concern is the re-enchantment of the world.

»The only magician who may be taken seriously.« Der Spiegel

»Luisa Francia knows what she is talking about.« Süddeutsche Zeitung

»An expert in unraveling magic powers.« Hamburger Abendblatt

»Compared to a »neo-sorceress« like Luisa Francia, a personality as bubbly and colorful, as she creative and sensitive, a woman who has seen a thing or two, ordinary people in this country look...terribly monophonic, undelightful and pale, not to say: as pale as a ghost.«
