

The ancient Mayans predicted a world-wide disaster for the year 2012.

Will our civilization be destroyed like the legendary Atlantis? The eruption of the super-volcano in Yellowstone National Park could easily trigger the apocalypse any day. Best-selling author Walter-Jörg Langbein has studied the prophecies of the ancient advanced civilisations and compared them with the latest findings of scientific research. The result is conclusive: catastrophe is just around the corner. The only thing that can save mankind is cutting-edge space technology. But do we stand a chance of winning the race against time?

→ Is the end of the world really upon us? What the Mayans were trying to tell us

Walter-Jörg Langbein was born in Michelau (Upper Franconia) in 1954. He studied Protestant theology. Since 1979, the free-lance author has travelled the world on a quest for the greatest secrets of history. Since then, he has written about thirty successful non-fiction books, among which are the best-sellers The Sphinx Syndrome (2003) and The Dictionary of Biblical Errors (2006).
